

MUSIC at Bovington Academy

'WHERE WORDS FAIL, MUSIC SPEAKS,'

HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN

What does music look like at Bovington?

At Bovington Academy we use a music scheme to ensure curriculum coverage and further enrich our music teaching by employing a specialist teacher to deliver lessons to all students across the academic year.

Individual and group lessons are also offered by a music teacher and The Rock Steady Music School.

What learning opportunities are available?

Aside from music lessons within the curriculum, we offer the children at Bovington Academy varied opportunities to develop and share their musical skills.

- We have a choir that attends various local events.
- Visits from The Rock Steady Music School.
- We offer music based after school clubs.
- Peripatetic music lessons.
- Visits to local music venues to take part in workshops.

Why do we learn music?

To develop the voice expressively through singing and chants.

To experience playing tuned and untuned instruments.

To play and perform in group and solo contexts.

To be introduced to a range of professionally performed music.

Our vision for music

At Bovington Academy, we recognise the importance of allowing our children the freedom to explore and express themselves musically as well as providing them with a strong base of knowledge on which to build their musical skills.